Marketing Division 2013 Highlights

- Beginning January, 2013, the Marketing & Development Division began producing an email based weekly bulletin titled "What's Up In South Bend Parks?" The bulletin features information on programs, events, projects, little known facts, and many other departmental tidbits.
- About $ 4,000 was generated by the Superintendents Golf Outing for the Youth Scholarship Fund. This fund is used to aid disadvantaged families in participating in ongoing youth programs and activities.
- The Marketing & Development Division held its first "marketing workshop" for the department. All divisions were included in what was an informational & educational day for all levels of staff. Many great ideas were exchanged with new & exciting projects planned. Some of these ideas were accomplished before the year's end, with many others to be completed in 2014.
- The Marketing & Development Division has produced its first printed calendar of events. This calendar is a result of suggestions from the afore mentioned "marketing workshop", and is a replacement for the long-running Activity Guide. Staff input favored this format to serve as a monthly reference to our customer base.
- Our Department continued participation in the Healthy Communities Surveillance and Management Project as a Beta site in the final of the three-year long commitment. This umbrella-project identifies and targets the community aspects that influence obesity and active living, specifically focusing on policies, funding, physical aspects, programs and services. We were asked to participate in a presentation at the National Recreation and Parks Association National Conference (NRPA) in highlighting this initiative on the national stage.
- Our department continues to spearhead the Active Youth Initiative (A.Y.I.) with Teresa Penbrook of GP Red out of Colorado. This initiative is becoming a powerful partnership of interested stakeholders in childhood development and community involvement. A Youth Forum was added this year, and AYI will be involved in South Bend's Let's Move City initiative.
- The Department has opened the process for selecting expertise to assist in the formulating of the Five Year Master Plan Update 2014-2015. This complex process of community feedback, needs assessment and level of service analysis will be kicking off its six month cycle at the very end of this 2013.
- In 2013 this department was able to maintain for the seventh year in a row its CAPRA accreditation. We again met all 36 critical areas in order to succeed.
- The South Bend Parks and Recreation Foundation Board finished its second official year of our 501@(3) status. The board is working on many key issues for funding and awareness.
- Under Marketing and Development's stewardship, the Department's website content management system underwent a substantial improvement behind the scenes. This will allow more flexibility and a better viewing experience to our users.
- The web site became more user-friendly with the addition of an easier to read mobile platform. Along with the obvious need to keep up with consumer needs, this was also an item brought to light in the marketing workshop. Over 30% of Park Department registrations come from online users, and the number is only expected to increase. This project was completed before year's-end, and has already resulted in positive feedback from users and staff alike.

Director

Serving in my 22nd year as the Director of the South Bend Parks and Recreation Department, I continue to be amazed at the efforts the Park staff continues to do as responsible and professional stewards of the Park's resources and the ongoing dedication to excellent customer satisfaction. Nowhere in city government does a department so consistently experience the opportunity to positively impact someone's live through day to day experiences. We have had over 860,000 paid admissions to park facilities in 2013 and well over a million experiences in the city parks as residents use our playgrounds and trails throughout the year.

Although demands never decrease in the public environment, access to much needed resources has been reduced. Declining revenues from property taxes continues its downward trend and puts a severe strain on budgeted requirements that seem to increase in cost each year. Recent strategies developed to help combat property tax reductions to the Park Department, include a new creative Public Private Partnership with the Potawatomi Zoological Society and the Park's Community Volunteer Program, with both venues saving the Park's Department hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

While innovative programs and good fiscal stewardship have helped us go a long way in providing valuable park services, a growing concern regarding deferred maintenance is looming large over the Parks and Recreation Department. South Bend currently has 57 parks with over thirty buildings and structures. Capital concerns are mounting as many of these facilities have reached or exceeded their lifespan. Addressing newer trends in parks are also a concern. Updating playgrounds that excite families to get out and get moving in a time when obesity has become a national and local epidemic should be a priority for everyone in our city. Addressing the needs of those with disabilities who live in our community and are woefully underserved continue to be a source of discouragement for many local families. Capital investment in our city parks will be a critical component for the Park Department to continue providing recreational opportunities for local residents in the years to follow.

As we move forward in 2014, we will begin the process of developing the Park's Department Five Year Master Plan. Development of this plan will include many opportunities for stakeholders, businesses, government officials, and local citizens to weigh in regarding park facilities, programs, and priorities. The Master Plan will be a clearly defined road map of priorities for the Park Department to work towards during the next five years.

Our future sees many challenges but we have always used challenges as sources of opportunities to get creative and bring the out the best in what we are and how we get the job done. We will continue to embrace new technology, strive for better efficiencies, and always serve our community with professionalism and pride at what we do for our residents.

In conclusion I want to thank the Board Of Park Commissioners for their leadership and support of the Park and Recreation Department. I would also like to further recognize the best staff and employee work group in the city. I never say it enough but I am very proud of all our employees and their often unrecognized dedication to doing their best for the Parks Department and the City of South Bend. Printed on the department employee picture taken last summer "People Make The Difference" has never been more accurate than demonstrated by the fine professionals of the city Parks and Recreation Department.
